

Strategic Doing™

Practitioner Training

Sponsored by UVA's Office of Organizational Excellence, this practitioner training enables people to launch action-oriented collaborations quickly, move them toward measurable outcomes, and make adjustments along the way.

Overview: The Strategic Doing (SD) method is designed to help open, loosely connected networks collaborate effectively. In this SD Practitioner Training, participants learn how to design and deliver a SD "workshop." In a SD workshop a group spends about 3 hours identifying the group's skills and resources, developing concepts to link and leverage those skills and resources, picking a strategic direction, designing a "Pathfinder Project" - a quick win to make progress - and creating a 30-day action plan that includes a follow-up conversation. Strategic Doing focuses on doing the do-able.

For more information on the Strategic Doing framework, visit <https://strategicdoing.net/intro/>.

Who is this training for? Anyone working in a setting in which collaboration is needed, and/or the environment in which they're operating is dynamic, will find the skills useful.

Facilitator:	Liz Nilsen, Associate Director, Agile Strategy Lab, University of North Alabama
Program Dates:	February 14, 16, 21 and March 2, 2023 (2 sessions per week over 2 weeks) Class Time: 8:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. (plus 2 hours of class time each week)
Location:	Zoom/Online
Cost:	$1,125 per person (discounted from $1,475)
Registration and Questions:	Contact Tim Kelley, 434-924-1344, tek2jk@virginia.edu

SD Training

The Strategic Doing practitioner training provides participants with the following:

- An understanding of the fundamentals of Strategic Doing
 - Learn agile leadership skills to launch a strategic collaboration
 - Practice skills during interactive sessions with small-group breakouts and an extended simulation
- Tools for Strategic Doing
 - Access to tools and templates to plan and deliver a workshop
 - Receive a copy of the book Strategic Doing: Ten Skills for Agile Leadership, A Practitioner's Trail Guide, a Trail Map, and lifetime access to an online library of resources
- Certification in the Strategic Doing Practitioner Training
 - Receive a digital credential and a certificate from the Strategic Doing Institute

